"what's making tb control and elimination here in baltimore more difficult is that we have a growing number of immigrants here that are from places where tb is common."